The mission of Empire State Development is to promote a vigorous and growing state economy, encourage business investment and job creation, and support diverse, prosperous local economies across New York State through the efficient use of loans, grants, tax credits, real estate development, marketing and other forms of assistance.

- Agribusiness: With an abundance of farmland, New York State has a lot to offer the agribusiness industry thanks to programs and incentives supporting its wide range of growers and producers.
- Craft Beverage: To benefit the growing number of independent brewers, vintners and distillers, we've worked collaboratively with the industry to transform our laws and add business-friendly legislation, including two new farm-based manufacturing licenses and tax incentives. The result is a renaissance in craft production throughout the state. Wineries, breweries, distilleries and cideries abound, their numbers keep climbing, and the trend is expected to continue thanks to the state's focus on this industry.
- Distribution: Speed, flexibility and access to markets are key ingredients New York offers to product distributors. With a large, skilled labor pool, a vast network of railways, highways and ports — and the most ambitious infrastructure and development program in state history — the distribution industry finds an efficient and cost-effective home here. New York State also offers a host of other business resources and tax incentives.

Agricultural Marketing Service

Administers programs that facilitate the efficient, fair marketing of U.S. agricultural products, including food, fiber, and specialty crops; provides the agricultural sector with tools and services that help create marketing opportunities.

- Market News - For 100 years, AMS has provided free, unbiased price and sales information to assist in the marketing and distribution of farm commodities. Each year, Market News issues thousands of reports, providing the industry with key wholesale, retail and shipping data.
- The reports give farmers, producers and other agricultural businesses the information they need to evaluate market conditions, identify trends, make purchasing decisions, monitor price patterns, evaluate transportation equipment needs and accurately assess movement.
- Rules and Regulations - The Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS) administers programs that facilitate the efficient, fair marketing of U.S. agricultural products, including food, fiber and specialty crops. Many of these programs are regulatory in nature and establish standards and requirements via the Federal rulemaking process.
- Grades and Standards - The USDA grade shields, official seals and labels are reputable symbols of the quality and integrity of American agricultural products. Large-volume buyers such as grocery stores, military institutions, restaurants, and even foreign governments use the quality grades as a common "language," making business transactions easier.
- Services - AMS quality standards, grading, certification, auditing, and inspection are voluntary tools and services that industry can use to help promote and communicate quality and wholesomeness to consumers. These services assist businesses in differentiating themselves from their competition.
- Resources - AMS offers a wealth of information, data, reports and publications.
- Specialty Crop Block Program -The purpose of the Specialty Crop Block Grant Program (SCBGP) is to solely enhance the competitiveness of specialty crops. Specialty crops are defined as "fruits, vegetables, tree nuts, dried fruits, horticulture, and nursery crops (including floriculture)."

Farm Aid

Farm Aid works year-round to build a system of agriculture that values family farmers, good food, soil and water, and strong communities. Our annual concert celebrates farmers, eaters and music coming together for change.

Agricultural Marketing Resource Center

Addresses marketing and business planning for U.S. agricultural producers.

The Center for Agricultural Development and Entrepreneurship \(CADE\)

CADE connects farm and food producers to resources by providing professional, individualized and confidential business and marketing consulting to agricultural entrepreneurs.

Farmer Veteran Coalition

Cultivates a new generation of farmers and food leaders, and develops viable employment and meaningful careers through the collaboration of the farming and military communities.

National Farm to School Network

The National Farm to School Network (NFSN) is an information, advocacy and networking hub for communities working to bring local food sourcing and food and agriculture education into school systems and early care and education settings.

National Good Agricultural Practices Program

The National Good Agricultural Practices (GAPS) Program was established in 1999, funded by CSREES-USDA and US-FDA, and based at Cornell University. The GAPS Program has collaborators in 34 states throughout the nation and has created many educational materials to help implement good agricultural practices on the farm.

This website creates a user-friendly universal portal bringing GAPS related information together for growers, packers, farm workers, extension educators, scientists, state and federal government personnel, and other interested stakeholders.

National Sustainable Agriculture Information Service

ATTRA is a program developed and managed by the National Center for Appropriate Technology (NCAT). The majority of funding for ATTRA is through a cooperative agreement with the United States Department of Agriculture's Rural Business-Cooperative Service. We are also partially funded through sales and subscriptions of a portion of ATTRA materials and through contributions from friends and supporters. We are committed to providing high value information and technical assistance to farmers, ranchers, Extension agents, educators, and others involved in sustainable agriculture in the United States.

National Young Farmers Coalition

Phone: (518) 643-3564

Email: info@youngfarmers.org

The National Young Farmers Coalition represents, mobilizes, and engages young farmers to ensure their success. They envision a country where young people who are willing to work, get trained and take a little risk can support themselves and their families in farming. They also support practices and policies that will sustain young, independent and prosperous farmers now and in the future.

Northeast Extension Risk Management Education Center

The Northeast Extension Risk Management Education Center was established in 2001, and is located at the University of Delaware. It is funded through the USDA National Institute of Food and Agriculture (NIFA), and is one of four regional Extension Risk Management Education Centers located throughout the country. The mission of the Northeast Center and the national program is educating America's farmers and ranchers to manage the unique risks of producing food for the world's table.

Northeast Organic Farming Association

The Northeast Organic Farming Association (NOFA) is a coalition of seven NOFA state chapters. The purpose is to advocate for and educate on organic and sustainable agriculture, family-scale farming and homesteading in rural, suburban and urban areas, agricultural justice and other related policy issues.
